Full bottle 1,300 g.
The defining thing about Le Morette's Bardolino Chiaretto is the yin-yang of playful but pure stone-fruit ripeness inset to the serious, firm, cold, curve-carve of smooth-rock minerality. You could quaff it as a delicious, thirst-quenching, white-peaches juicy fun wine and all you'd need with a fat slice of ripe musk melon and a ribbon of glistening prosciutto. Or, you could stop and feel for the glitter of salt crystals, the pull of apricot-skin tannins, the bitterness of peach kernel, and things could get a little more gourmet. This wine would be stunning with high-end sushi. (TC)
